Dear Companions on the Journey,

A letter from Ralph Martin

It’s time to catch up on a few things I’ve briefly mentioned earlier but now can give a fuller report on.

As many of you know, each year we have an annual Gathering/Retreat for those who are connected to Renewal Ministries in some way—by praying for us, contributing financially, or going on mission trips. We hold it somewhere in the Ann Arbor area, near to our U.S. offices. This is a convenient location for many of our Canadian supporters as well, as we are close to the Canadian border. While many people drive to the Gathering there are a number of people who fly from the far reaches of North America to also attend. This is a very special time for all of us and year after year many of the attendees say it is a highlight of their year and gives them a significant spiritual boost. The following comments were received in response to last May’s Gathering:

“I most appreciated the support to continue the battle against the immense problems of life.”
“I have been strengthened to step up even more in my parish and community to share Jesus with others.”
“I appreciated being together to experience a foretaste of heaven on earth! The teachings were excellent and I was greatly encouraged by the presentations from mission coordinators.”
“The Gathering is the highlight of our year and it was so nice to meet people from all over the world.”
“I came away from the Gathering with a greater sense of hope; hope in the possibility that as individuals and as Renewal Ministries we can all help in the conversion of people in our current culture.”
“I appreciated the fellowship at the Gathering and the opportunity to meet old and new friends in the Lord. It was so uplifting and there is so much to take back home and ways to share the Lord.”
“The talks were very timely, with a clear message of encouragement and awakening.”

Dear Companions on the Journey,

“Praise be to God! I am refreshed and renewed in my spirit!”

“I really felt like I was in the midst of people actually living the book of The Acts of the Apostles. I want to help more. We’ve shared our experience with others here and all of us hope to do more to respond to the mission of Christ here as well.”

“We were very blessed to be at the Gathering for the first time, even though we have been supporters of Renewal Ministries for many years. Thank you for your years of faithful service in the Kingdom; fruits are being borne near and far.”

“I want to thank all of you for a great experience of the Holy Spirit. It was my first contact with Renewal Ministries and it truly was a banquet of ‘inexpressible joy’ as the Bible says.”

There are so many things that compete for our time but I can guarantee if you put the dates for next year’s Gathering into your calendar you will not be disappointed. The dates are May 13–15, 2011 and we will meet again at the Marriott Eagle Crest Hotel and Conference Center in Ypsilanti, the neighboring town to Ann Arbor. More info will be available this winter and we will alert you through the newsletter and website.

From time to time we list events in our Events Calendar in the newsletter and on our website that are just for a particular group and are not open to the public. We do so in order to give you a better idea of the total scope of what we are doing. Beginning with this newsletter and also on our website we will now put an asterisk* next to these kinds of events. One such of these events that regularly takes place are meetings or activities of The Institute for Priestly Formation which is based at Creighton University in Omaha, Nebraska (www.creighton.edu/ipf). I first came into contact with the IPF through my work at the seminary in Detroit when I attended a conference they were holding for seminary personnel. I was very impressed with their spiritual depth and vision for the renewal of the priesthood, which is based on profound conversion and deep union with Christ. I was invited by their leaders to become involved with their ministry and have benefitted personally, as has my wife Anne, from Ignatian retreats they offer. I have been able to contribute to their mission in various ways through giving talks at their events, participating on their Mission Council, etc.

Each summer they provide a 10 week program for the spiritual renewal of seminarians and for the past two years capacity attendance of about 170 seminarians has been the case. They also provide training seminars for seminary spiritual directors, publish books and materials useful for priestly renewal, and conduct annual conferences—each year at a different seminary, in which that seminary’s entire community participates.

As I mentioned in a previous newsletter, this past year the conference was at St. Paul Seminary in St. Paul/Minneapolis, MN. I was the keynote speaker and Dr. Mary Healy from Sacred Heart Seminary (www.shms.edu), a professor of Scripture, and Fr. John Riccardo, a local pastor and host of a Catholic Radio program (www.olgcparish.net) also gave talks. There were opportunities for the seminarians to receive prayer of various types, including prayer for healing. Many of the seminarians experienced significant renewal and a touch of the “new Pentecost.” In addition to their work with priests and seminarians, the IPF also provides helpful and practical resources for married and lay people. This month we are offering some audio sets on marriage and on prayer by Deacon James Keating, the Director of Theology for the IPF, and a recent guest on The Choices We Face.

In the photo accompanying this article you can see our team with the leaders of IPF. So the next time you see a IPF event listed among our events, even though these are targeted events for specific groups of people and aren’t open to the public, you can rejoice at how God is allowing us to contribute to this great work.

Each week the letters and emails come in, testifying to how the whole range of Renewal Ministries’ outreach efforts are bearing fruit throughout the world. As I write this we have teams in Tanzania, Uganda and Ghana and tonight I will go to the airport to pick up the new Archbishop of Riga, Latvia who will be our house guest for a few days. It’s a joy to see that this man, whom we first met as a young seminarian in Poland and with whom we have had continuing contact over the years, has now been entrusted with this responsibility. Let’s pray for him—Archbishop Zbignevs Stankevics—and all the other Church leaders who are facing great challenges and trying to lead their people to Christ.

Your brother in the Great Adventure,

Ralph Martin

Is the Lord Answering our Prayers for Priests?

Recently, I opened up my email to find an article on yet another shocking account of a priest, this time in the U.S. who is guilty of siphoning off a large amount of money from his parish for his own personal “pleasures.” The next day I read an email account of a 75 year old bishop from another country, released from prison after serving a year for being loyal to the teaching of the Faith and to the Pope. Altogether that bishop has spent eighteen years of his life in prison for that reason.

The contrast over these two articles drove me to my knees and to much tearful intercession. Then the Lord in His mercy intervened and assured me He was hearing not only my prayers but those of millions of Catholics who have prayed for our priests during the past year. Momentarily puzzled, I said to the Lord, “How are you answering our prayers? I don’t see it.”

The Lord gave me an analogy to show me how He is answering our prayers for our priests. When there is a wound that is infected, you first have to cleanse the infection before it can begin to heal. The serious sin that has been “hidden” for so long and has taken deep root and is systemic in the body needs to be exposed. In so doing we “see” the infection in all its ugliness to disfigure and to destroy the body. Every inch, every ounce has to be cleansed before the body can begin to heal and eventually be restored to health. If not totally cleansed, infection will break out again and affect some other part of the body. The Lord showed me that the exposure of priestly wrongdoing, not only in the U.S. but in many parts of the world is the first step in God’s answer to our prayers for priests this past year.

It makes me think that even though the official year of prayer is over we should continue and perhaps double our prayer for our priests. Satan knows the power of the priesthood and has launched a particular subversive attack in the last forty to fifty years on the Church all over the world. Many human errors, sin, and vulnerabilities contributed to the devastation, but at the root, Satan is the author.

For those of us who have been blessed by the Baptism in the Holy Spirit and have learned about spiritual warfare, we need to put on the armor of God (See Ephesians 6:10–20). In fact, I would encourage a reading and study of the entire Letter to the Ephesians. As you read and study, make it first an examination of conscience of your own life. See where your own vulnerabilities are and apply Paul’s teaching on the armor of God to your own personal life, and then to your prayer for the Church and our priests and bishops.

I would recommend very highly a recently published Catholic Commentary on Sacred Scripture. Several volumes have already been published and among them is Ephesians by Peter Williamson. Because of the urgency and the seriousness of the need for prayer, I want you to be well equipped to intercede for our priests and bishops. These volumes are available from Renewal Ministries at www.renewalministries.net or by calling 734-662-1730 x25. Peter Williamson and Mary Healy are the series editors and both are colleagues of Ralph Martin at Sacred Heart Major Seminary in Detroit, Michigan. Along with other excellent Scripture scholars, they are responsible for what I think will be an outstanding contribution to Catholic Scripture study, bringing a fresh vitality and pastoral insight into the Scriptures.

God said He would never leave us orphans—even when we, as a Church, have greatly sinned, because He is infinitely merciful. We deserve severe punishment for our unfaithfulness and betrayal of God and those he entrusted to us. And yet, Scripture tells us:

“When I shut up the heavens so that there is no rain or command the locust to devour the land, or send pestilence among my people, if my people who are called by my Name humble themselves, and pray and seek my face and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven and will forgive their sin and heal their land. Now my eyes will be open and my ears attentive to the prayer that is made in this place.” (2Chronicles 7:13–15)

Let us pray together for our priests, ourselves, and the whole Church—wherever we are. Distance is no obstacle when we are united in mind and heart. Let us pray unceasingly until the infection is gone and the wound can begin to heal.

“Have no anxiety about anything but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God. And the peace of God, which passes all understanding, will keep your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus.” (Philippians 4:6–7)
Mission to Papua New Guinea

Papua New Guinea, home to about four million people, is a mysterious land with great mountains falling away into the sea. Much of the interior has not been seen by outsiders, and the ancient hardwood forests and thick vegetation make the jungles somewhat foreboding. The country is on the verge of major changes with the discovery of large quantities of oil, gas, gold and other minerals in the remote mountains. The people will face a challenge to their ancient cultures and their very way of life. Progress is inevitable, but if Christ can be brought into the hearts of the people, they face a bright future.

We were graciously met by our friend Bishop Anthony Burgess who has a huge job of not only governing his flock, but caring as well for 17 parishes without priests. The bishop brought 650 kids from St. Leo Arkfield Secondary School into Christ the King Cathedral. There had been so many good reports from last year’s program at Yaraposs High School that the teachers at St. Leo wanted the same for their kids. Working with 650 kids is a high energy experience! Our schedule began at 8:30 am until 2:30 or so, with a break for lunch. The heat was stifling in this huge old church and the kids initially seemed shy, but very grateful for everything we taught.

We started each day with music and they loved it. As is the case everywhere we go, Lloyd began with a clear, concise presentation of the Gospel, using Jesus’ question of “Who do you say I am?” We showed them videos about evangelization in other countries, and they were a real hit. We then challenged them to consider going to the U.S. or China to enter into the essential evangelization mission of the Church. When we asked who wanted to go to the nations with the Gospel almost everyone raised their hands!

The belief in sanguma (witchcraft), masala (evil spirits), and glassman (wizards) is strong here and keeps many of the people in bondage to fear. Curses are real to them. Each day I taught on how to get free and stay free and these young people listened intently. At one session, we couldn’t decide to go on break or continue with the teaching, so Lloyd asked what they wanted us to do. Everyone shouted that they wanted to stay and not take a break. Lloyd asked if they had any questions and no one raised their hand. Later one of the teachers informed us that they are shy and won’t speak in front of others. She suggested they write their questions down anonymously and very personal questions began to pour in about death, polygamy, the work of Satan, occult activities, sexual sin, heaven, the power of the Holy Spirit, and life in Jesus.

After hearing of God’s healing power one of the girls asked us to pray for her nephew. This perfectly healthy eight year old received a shot for an infection and when the parents brought him home he was paralyzed in the leg. He had been unable to walk for two months and his mother carried him to us. We prayed for him and asked the Lord to heal him. Lloyd had the boy stand up and he began to walk around the room. Later the girl got on the microphone to say that her nephew had walked all the way home!

As the week continued, the youth overcame their shyness and we started the morning with three Renewal Ministries began working in Papua New Guinea in 2005 at the invitation of Bishop Anthony Burgess. Despite the challenges of caring for his flock in a land that is remote and often difficult to traverse, he is a tireless shepherd with a heart for evangelization.

We prayed for him and asked the Lord to heal him. Lloyd had the boy stand up and he began to walk around the room. Later the girl got on the microphone to say that her nephew had walked all the way home!
male volunteers to do the hand motions to the song “Trading My Sorrows”, and their fellow students loved it. I taught on forgiveness and the Bishop stayed for the morning session. There are lots of problems here: drugs and alcohol abuse, witchcraft, poverty, teen pregnancy, and very little hope of landing jobs. Lloyd answered more questions, and then we prayed for the baptism of the Holy Spirit. We handed out the Miracle/Forgiveness Prayer of which the Bishop had 1200 printed in Pidgen, their native tongue.

The next morning we were up bright and early as usual and headed for St. Paul Church in Boiken to celebrate Corpus Christi Sunday. The Mass was wonderful; they had traditional dancers of all ages to bring in the Bishop, then the Word and the Offertory. Bishop asked Lloyd to preach after Mass and Lloyd really challenged the people to holiness. Later we prayed for a four year old child with severe delayed development who was perfectly healthy at birth. We felt strongly that a curse was broken and we saw small changes in his countenance. We returned to the Bishop’s house and packed for the 1½ hour boat trip to Kiruru Island.

As we neared the island we spotted at least 50 kids in bright yellow shirts who were serenading us with music and holding a huge sign from St. Martin De Porres Catholic Secondary School. About 100 people from the parish/village who were curious about American lay people came to greet us. We met the parish priest, Fr. Paul Kotecki, a 36 year old from Poland who graciously opened his home to us. This island looked like paradise, but as we talked to Fr. Paul we heard otherwise. Alcohol, drugs and AIDS are the three largest knives tearing at the fabric of their society. These people still believe in Satan’s pervasive power through the witch doctor and like his counterpart in Africa, he works though deception and lies. Any situation or unexplainable disease is immediately suspect of a curse from the Sanguma, put on them by another family.

We began the next morning by proclaiming the basic Gospel message and then I taught the Unbound model of prayer and deliverance. They were very interested in getting free and staying free from the evil and superstition that permeates life on the island. Curiously, the students smiled when smiled at, but were shy and didn’t hold one’s gaze very long. We were made aware of a situation by the school administration. We were not told the exact problem, but the Headmaster and teachers had come to an impasse. He had stated his decision to resign and leave. They asked us what to do, because it was affecting the students. I suggested in a figurative way that they should pray all night and fast. They took me literally and did just that. At 4 am the next morning I could hear them singing. I didn’t tell them anything new, but they just needed to be reminded. The Charismatic Renewal has been here since 1982 and they really know how to pray.

I stressed the importance of forgiveness as the most powerful tool the Lord has given us and two days later one of the women in charge in the school administration took the microphone and announced to everyone that reconciliation had occurred and the principal had agreed to stay! This principal had really improved the quality of education since he had been there and everyone was quite happy that he will continue on. Another answered prayer was also reported. The day prior to that, one of the teachers and some students came to our house and asked for help. Another student had collapsed and couldn’t move below the waist. Lloyd prayed for her and she was able to stand and walk. The next morning she walked to the boat landing and went home to her island to visit her family! These things really built the faith of the people.

Some of the kids made the 6½ hour trek across the 2500 foot steep mountain to come to our sessions. The next day we started continued on pg 6

Lloyd presented the Gospel message to the secondary students and staff of Our Lady of Fatima, a small rural parish in Mt. Hagen. After leading them in a prayer to fully accept Jesus in their hearts, they received prayer for the baptism in the Holy Spirit.

When Father Paul passed by where she was sitting, she felt the very hot heat like fire on Father Paul’s white cassock. All of her problems were healed. Thank God for having such wonderful people like you to tell us the truth about the Catholic faith.

I would like to express what God did to my sister and me last night. We never experienced Eucharistic healing like that, even though she is a nun. When Father Paul passed by where she was sitting, she felt the very hot heat like fire on Father Paul’s white cassock. All of her problems were healed. Thank God for having such wonderful people like you to tell us the truth about the Catholic faith. My husband left me and my two children and now that they are grown they are living an immoral life. I do not know what to do, but you rescued me to follow the right path to communicate with God. Last night gave me peace. Now I am renewed with my gifts of wisdom, speaking in tongues.

The next morning we departed at 3 AM for the flight to Mt. Hagen, Papua New Guinea. Archbishop Doug Young picked us up from the small airport and took us to a little rural parish, Our Lady of Fatima, which has a primary and secondary school. We were asked to talk to the secondary teachers and school students, some of whom were older (20 or so) because when their parents or guardians couldn’t pay the school fees, they waited out a year until the funds could be found. The Bishop told us we were brought here because there was a huge problem in the school a few weeks ago and they were desperately hoping we could help. Apparently a small incident involving a cell phone ignited a smoldering hidden problem between tribes. Some boys broke into the girl’s dormitory, separated the girls by tribe, raped one and abused others. Verbal insults and rocks were also hurled at teachers. The school was closed down for a time until things cooled off. We took a big gulp and said, “Alleluia, let’s see what Jesus will do!”

It was the Feast Day of the Sacred Heart of Jesus and we began around 8 AM with the school assembly. There were about 900 kids, both boarding and day students. The day was filled with teaching, song, praise and fun. Lloyd presented the Gospel, its promises and its demands. We did the crucifixion skit and then led them in a prayer to fully accept Jesus into their hearts. I gave my personal testimony and then talked about sin and the need to repent. We ended the evening with a weekly prayer meeting. The praise and worship was the best we have been exposed to in this country and...

The next day, Saturday was supposedly mandatory for the students, but we lost about half of the day students because many did not have transportation back to school. We finished talking about the entry ways of Satan and I continued to talk on forgiveness. Everyone listened very closely and then I led everyone in a prayer to forgive everyone who had hurt them, including their worst enemy. There were a lot of tears. Lloyd then challenged the young men present to stand up and join him in apologizing to the young women present for any man who had ever hurt them. At first nobody stood up, but Lloyd stayed at them and finally more than half of the young men stood up. As Lloyd prayed many of the young women cried. There seemed to be a real release. Two of the teachers came up to Lloyd later and told of how they were set free from years of pain by hearing a man apologize. God was working!

After lunch we asked the kids if they wanted the power of the Holy Spirit in their lives. They shouted back a resounding, “YES!” Excitement was in the air. We only had these kids for one more session and we wanted them to get everything. When we returned we had an hour of praising and dancing before the Lord. The songs were both in English and Pidgen. We called them up to the front of the room and began to pray for the baptism in the Holy Spirit and all the gifts such as gifts of tongues, prophecy, preaching, healing and any other gifts the Holy Spirit might want to give. The kids were really touched. Finally we asked those who thought they might have a call to the priesthood, or religious life to come forward so their peers could pray for them. At least 30 kids responded! Afterwards, many of the kids came forward to give their testimonies. They reported healing of body, soul and emotions. One 17 year old named Simon shared that he had left the Church three years ago because of a problem with a girl. He shared that he was touched and came back to Jesus and he received the gift of tongues. It seemed like all the 500 kids there wanted to shake our hands, get our contacts, and thank us for the best time of their lives. It is marvelous how quickly Jesus can change hearts and minds!

The next evening we had the privilege of going on the Catholic radio station for an hour of live broadcast and we shared about the New Evangelization and how lay Catholics can serve the Church in full time ministry. We pray that God had the right people listening! The next morning the Archbishop drove us to the airport to begin the marathon trip home. It was our first opportunity to work with this archbishop in the Highlands and God really connected us. He saw and heard of the power of God released during the youth programs and was anxious for us to come again next year and work with his priests.

During the celebration of Corpus Christi Sunday, traditional dancers with colorful beads, feathers, flowers and parts of plants processed in carrying the Word of God.

After lunch we asked the kids if they wanted the power of the Holy Spirit in their lives. They shouted back a resounding, ‘YES!’
